

We placed our trust in Marty and the team for a major renovation of our home. We were looking for a company that took pride in their service; cared about their customers getting the results they were looking for; and acted with integrity and the highest standards of professionalism. Perhaps you may think we had unrealistic expectations in an industry that seems to be plagued with over-promise, under-delivery and questionable standards?

We are delighted to say Marty and his team lived up to the high expectations we had of them, and the recommendations of our Architects and other satisfied customers. It was not only the thorough approach that the team took to every aspect of our project that impressed us, it was the way they went about it, in the respect they showed for our home, and the investment we were making in improving it. They took pride in everything they did and involved an extended team of subcontractors with similar standards and ethics.

We were not looking for a superficial result that wouldn't stand the test of time, we were looking for someone to work on our home with the same care and attention to detail they would their own. That approach may not suit everyone in an era of 'get rich quick' property development, and cutting corners but it was exactly the attitude we were looking for from our builders. We are absolutely delighted with the outcome, and are confident we will continue to be for years to come.

The fact that our project won gold in its category in the Master Builders awards says we are not alone in recognizing the high quality and standards of the team. They were a pleasure to deal with, have proven worthy of our trust and confidence, and we would not hesitate to recommend to others who have similar objectives for their property and similar expectations of what their investment in quality should return.
